Franz Schubert : Franz Schubert: Symphonie VIII: H moll/B minor/Si mineur:

Unvollendete/Unfinished/Inacheve [musical score] before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Franz Schubert: Symphonie VIII: H moll/B minor/Si mineur:
Unvollendete/Unfinished/Inacheve [musical score]:

Schubert's Symphony no. 8 (Unfinished). Trilingual edition, with text in German, English, and French. From the English preface: "The two movements of the 'Unfinished Symphony' were composed by Schubert in October 1822. The first performance took place in Vienna on December 17th 1865 and was conducted by Herbeck who had accidentally discovered the manuscript at the home of Anselm Httenbrenner, the latter having been a close musical friend of Schubert's." In addition to Schubert's manuscript notes for the first and second movement of this symphony, the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde of Vienna owns the manuscript of a third (Scherzo) movement which has remained a fragment. It ends with the middle portion of the Trio and apart from the first line for which Schubert has written the orchestration, it is a sort of manuscript note for piano solo. This fragment has previously been published in the explanatory appendix of the complete edition of Schubert's works, and a reproduction has been added to this edition."
