before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Keep Watching the Skies! American Science Fiction Movies of the Fifties, Vol. 2: 1958-1962:

Book by Warren, Bill

From Library JournalThis is a continuation of the well-received 1982 work that covered the years 1950-57. The films are arranged alphabetically within year of release. Each is synopsised at length, often with quotes, and much data is proffered on the actors, directors, writers, special effects, etc. Warren also offers his own very definite opinions and sometimes takes strong exception to fellow writers and critics. Appendixes contain full casts and credits and films announced but never produced. This is probably more than anyone except fervent fans will want to know, but Warren's obvious affection for the films and his spirited style make this eminently readable and highly recommended for most collections.
