Radio Spirits : Screen Guild before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Screen Guild:

"Screen Guild Theater" during a transition time from Roger Pryor and Gulf to Truman Bradley and Lady Esther. Usually when changing sponsors radio programs in the Golden Age would stage major happenings to insure keeping its audience. Having scenes from "Yankee Doodle Dandy" with James Cagney served perfectly this task. Cagney was beginning his presidency of the Screen Actors Guild when the broadcast took place and remarks by him about the Guild's work climaxed the broadcast. This package also has a delightful staging of "Ball of Fire" with Richard Haydn repeating his film role of Prof. Ottley and Prof. Potts played by none other than bandleader Kay Kyser! (Gary Cooper was Potts in the movie original)
