Johannes Brahms : Serenades Nos. 1 and 2 in Full Score (Dover Music Scores) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Serenades Nos. 1 and 2 in Full Score (Dover Music Scores):

These two serenades reflect Brahms's interest, during the years 1858 and 1859, in the symphonies of Haydn and Mozart, as well as the latter's exquisite divertimenti, scored for small instrumental ensembles. Serenade No. 1 in D major was in fact originally composed for nine woodwinds and solo strings, then later rescored for full orchestra. Its six movements graceful, melodious, and light-textured reflect the elegance of the Mozart model while entertaining us with Brahms's characteristically spacious, flowing themes.Serenade No. 2 in A major for Small Orchestra was a favorite of Brahms warm, intimate, and darkly colored because of the unusual absence of violins. Referring to the work as his "beautiful opus," the composer often reflected on its delicacy and the "severe test" of performing its pensive Adagio, the third movement of five. This attractive, inexpensive edition combining both serenades in a single volume is sure to appeal to a wide audience of musicians and music lovers.

About the Author German-born composer Johannes Brahms (1833-1897), an important figure of the Romantic era, spent most of his career at the forefront of the Viennese musical scene. A master of counterpoint, he wrote for piano, chamber ensembles, symphony orchestras, and voice.
